Banner and Contact slave image folder problem

Posted by mladeira - 2009/07/21 22:35

Hi,
i've just installed the multisites component into my joomla installation, and I'm having a problem with the slave image folder. The problem is that when I add a new banner or contact into the slave site, I'm able to see all the images from the master site. I'd like to point the Banner 'Image Selector' and the Contact 'Image folder' into a specific folder of my slave site. How can I change this configuration?

http://www.sau.unb.br/cpd/images/adding_banner_folder_problem.png

http://www.sau.unb.br/cpd/images/adding_contact_folder_problem.png

==========

Re:Banner and Contact slave image folder problem

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/07/21 23:25

All depends on your environment.
The following answer is applicable for the most frequent case that is Unix with Symbolic Link allowed.
In this case, you can define a slave site with specific images and media folders.
Here it is typical values that you can use

Deploy folder = {site_dir} media = images
images = images/stories

You can also modify those path in the Joomla Global Configuration.

Remark: This suppose that you have configure the domain or sub-domain with the {site_dir} location and not the master root directory path.

So if you have configured your hosting server to have a specific directory to each website and that you have provided this specific path to JMS then you will have a specific path for the images and media folder for each slave site.

Search in this forum and you will retreive several identical answer to a similar request.

In general, you can have a look in the (?) beside the field and you will find the typical values.

==========