My slave site is dead !

Posted by wilson23 - 2009/10/09 12:03

Hello,

I've bought and installed joomla Multisite. I have jomsocial shared between a site and his slave ... all good.

Yesterday night (i don't know if depends on that) i've bought Article Sharing... setup some articles ... all was looks good ..

a few hrs after i've discovered that my slave site was a blank page in front-end.

i can logon to admin area but the front end is still blank ..

my index.php is i nthe ight location ... something was happened to my template dir ... was not a link anymore .. so i've made an ln -s again but the site showing blank page ...

if i create any slave site the same thing front-end blank and back end runs ok ..

if i go in the template manager i see this: JFolder::folder: Path is not a folder please help me asap .. i don't have any ideas tosolve this ... and i can't re-install all

In general a blank page is due to a syntax error somewhere.
In your case, this maybe due to this "templates" directory that is no more present and does not allow Joomla display the front-end.

The only solution to identify such problem consist in adding traces into the joomla php code to identify the peace of code that may cause this error.
