customisation to multisites

Posted by dschris - 2010/02/15 00:06

Hi,

I tried to contact support a few days ago via email but have not had a reply yet. I'm looking for a customisation of Multisites.

I'm mostly happy with things as they are, but I need the following tables to be shared.

#_hp_agents
#_hp_companies
#_yanc (all tables)

I can see that Hot Property support is built in, but it shares either all the tables or none, I'm looking for just the two above tables to be shared. The rest should be specific to each slave.

Can you advise on a cost and how to set this up?

Also on another point regarding Virtuemart, I have chosen to only share the users, not the whole table. When doing this the following tables are not shared although they contain user related information.

#_vm_auth_user_group
#_vm_auth_user_vendor

I've not found a situation myself that uses these tables, but if they are used then should they be shared as well?

Thanks

Chris

Sorry but we have not received any email from you.

You can not share partial table of an extension or you may create inconsitency.
You have to see the extension as a whole.

In JMS, it is not possible to customize the table as you want as this would impact all the customers.
We could do it exclusivelly for you but at your own risks and we have to warn you that the sharing definition that we could provide you will be deleted and replaced by the origin JMS one each time you will perform an update.

Conccerning yanc table, perhaps this correspond to an extension not yet defined in JMS.
So try to send us the extension in attachement of an email.
Perhaps we will receive you email this time.
We will review the extension and perhaps will add its definition in JMS.

Thanks Edwin, I sent it through the contact form on this website so maybe somethings wrong there. I'll send in another email from outlook with the information you require.

I understand completely about the warning regarding sharing partial tables, it could cause a lot of problems. I've made customisations to the Hot Property on my site so I'm happy that those two tables can be shared in my situation.

The custom version is exactly what I'm looking for, this won't be suitable for other people's websites.

Hi, I sent an email to info@jms2win.com, could you confirm if you received it or not? Thanks.
