Edwin or others who have successfully implimented:

I have created the flow chart below to ensure I have a complete understand of your directions, and to ensure you have a complete understand of my layout needs.
Please view the graph, and let me know what you make think to be potential problems with this layout.

Much appreciated

The recommended architecture is described in our tutorial video 0.b (technical document) slide 21 to 24
http://www.jms2win.com/tutorial#jms12x-0b

It is not recommended to have a master website directory over the slave site directories when this is not required.
It is better to have the master directory beside the other directories that will give you additional possibilities to secure it.
