Do I Need to setup a domain?

Posted by amityweb - 2011/03/09 00:57

HI

Just getting to grips with this... I have a quick question...

Do I need to setup a domain to map to a slave site? Can I not access it using the development URL?

For example, my site URL is like:
http://12.34.56.78/~mysite/

We wont assign a domain name immediately, not until development of site is finished. So can I not access the site using:

http://12.34.56.78/~mysite/multisites/test1/ (this gives blank page) OR http://12.34.56.78/~mysite/test1 (this gives not found)

Thanks

==========

Re:Do I Need to setup a domain?

Posted by amityweb - 2011/03/09 16:15

Done worry about this, I have created a sub-domain for the main website domain, then can do sub-domains of sub-domains for the test sites.

==========

Re:Do I Need to setup a domain?

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/03/10 18:17

Normally, you can use IP and subdirectories.
If you have a blank page, this can be due to a Fatal Error somewhere.
If you are using cPanel, you can sometimes find more info in the "error_log" file and give you information on the reason of the error.
Perhaps a file permission error.

==========