Extensions. SobiPro, Acymailing

Posted by hyrms - 2011/03/28 15:20

We are considering setting up Multisite for 6 websites (under 6 distinct domains) for an online newspaper publisher.

1. SobiPro: Will Sobipro be compatible with multisite. We plan to install it at least on 1 slave.

2. Acymailing: The idea is that we use acymailing as a newsletter management extensions. I cannot find it in the supported extensions list. At the moment the idea is to only use it on the master, but we might want to set it up on slaves as well in the future.

==========

Re: Extensions. SobiPro, Acymailing

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/03/28 18:34

---

1) Yes SOBI Pro is compatible and we also defined it for Joomla 1.6

2) Yes Acymailing is also defined. This company also provide the multisites compatibility for their extension.

==========

Re: Extensions. SobiPro, Acymailing

Posted by Kaiser - 2011/08/29 19:02

---

edwin2win wrote:
1) Yes SOBI Pro is compatible and we also defined it for Joomla 1.6

...

Does this compatibility mean only install on slaves or also sharing of table-data of the SobiPro component ?

I ask this because i read "Add Joomla 1.5 sharing definition for: - Sobi Pro" and "Add Joomla 1.6 sharing definition for: - Sobi Pro" in 1.2.53 Patch definitions while in the page listing the compatibility list SobiPro results compatible for install but not for sharing (both for Joomla 1.5 and Joomla 1.6) .

thanks

==========

Re: Extensions. SobiPro, Acymailing

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/08/29 20:42

I will review the list that is displayed in the "list of extension".

I confirm that the "Sobi Pro" is defined for the sharing in Joomla 1.6 and also for Joomla 1.7.

==========

Re: Extensions. SobiPro, Acymailing

Posted by Kaiser - 2014/12/01 18:00

_____

Hello,
please can you confirm full compatibility for new SobiPro 1.1 releases ?

Moreover, i'd like to know if JMS allows to share CMGroupBuying tables, thanks.

==========