I have the following message in my control panel, but when I click the "Get Latest Version" button, it doesnt do anything but take me back to the JMS website? What am I missing?

See the FAQ that also contain a video that show how to do that.
http://www.jms2win.com/faq#sec-122

You have to login in www.jms2win.com and have purchased the product to have the "get latest version" menu available.

I'm not getting your system and it seems quite a few other people don't either. You simply push us to videos and don't answer questions and that only causes more confusion. From best I can tell, when you PAY for this product, we only get 3 updates? Is that correct?

Also why does this forums not notify us of forums posts when we subscribe to threads?

The procedure is clear.
Just login in www.jms2win.com and go in get latest version menu.

If you don't know how to do, we tell you that you have a video on how to proceed.

So the procedure seems to be clear

Again here it is the links that give the detailled procedure in the FAQ
http://www.jms2win.com/faq#sec-122
and video is here

If you don't have purchased JMS Multisites you will not provide you the menu.
