Am I correctly setting up this template?

Posted by uscip - 2011/01/24 18:54

Scenario:
- Have an established, production website
- Installed JMS and patches

- Need two additional sites that share only the users among all three. Each site needs its own joomla template, images, etc.

- No "Sites" setup yet in "Manage Sites"

Now adding first "Template" (attached image). Do I have all the necessary fields correct? Have I left anything out?

Thanks!

http://www.jms2win.com/images/fbfiles/images/jms_tmpl.gif

==========

Re: Am I correctly setting up this template?

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/01/24 22:24

So to share the users, you also have to go in the "sharing" tabs to select what you want to share. Concerning the specific templates and images folder, you also have to select "files and folders" tabs where you select the action copy for the "templates" and "images" directory.

==========

Re: Am I correctly setting up this template?

Posted by colacore - 2011/01/24 22:59

Case and point. Terrible answer from the developer. I see 2 questions in the graphic alone that didn't get addressed and the templates and images statement gives no direction whatsoever.

You REALLY need to hire someone who has a better grip on tech support. You may be a brilliant developer but if you are going to then sell the product(s) you develop, you MUST be able to support the product for people who are NOT DEVELOPERS!

==========

Re: Am I correctly setting up this template?

Posted by uscip - 2011/01/25 18:20

Unfortunately, I have to agree with colacore. I already had the shared users figured out which was why I didn't ask about it and after the "answer: I am no closer to making this work.

After hours and hours of reading the documents and tormenting over the tutorials and trying configuration after configuration, I am afraid that I have to give up at this point. I feel like I wasted my money and definitely understand why there is no trial for this product. If there was a trial, few would ever result in a purchase.

Thank you and good luck.

==========

Re: Am I correctly setting up this template?

Posted by edwin2win - 2011/01/25 19:04

You mentioned in the requirement that you want SHARE the users and the screenshot is not the correct one that define the sharing and I told you to have a look in the other panel "Sharing".
You have 3 screen in the "JMS Template" detail.
Open the other tabs to see the other parameters.

There you will have plenty of check box and radio button to select what you want to share.
You also have a video that explain step by step on how to share the users.
Perhaps you should watch the video and "copy paste" the value to reprodue exactly the same scenario.
In general we are using "keyword" that are generic and that can work in most cases.
http://www.jms2win.com/en/tutorial#jms12x-16

==========