You can NOT add a user to a slave site but you can update the pre-selected front-end admin user with the user name, email and password of the users.
This result with the same thing and also give you the possibility to have a specific permission for the admin user.

See the JMS Template - Admin user that you can select. In general in the demo, I show something like "fe_admin" (Front-End Admin user).

Becarefull that you can NOT share the users between the websites.

Hi,

Thank you for your reply. I tried this method but user details are not updating. $user->save() function is used to update values but it is not returning success(true).

Thanks
