It is difficult to tell you the reason.
For that you should know which extension generate this error.
This can be a plugin present in JomSocial that trying to use the "group" field that does not exists.

A method to know it would be to add debugging trace when this error is triggered to identify the caller and after trying to understand the reason of this error.

Thanks, this was the exact tip I need. Please note that using JFirePHP cause a lot of issues with JMS.
