JoomlaFCK Editor

Please add JoomlaFCK Editor to the ability to share to each site. It would be nice to use it on each slave site that needs a text editor.

Thank you,

John

Would you please send us this joomlafck editor in attachement of an email.
See contact us for the email
http://www.jms2win.com/contact

We will check it compatibility with JMS and potentially add its definition in JMS 1.2.x

Hello, we're running 1.2.48 (with Patches definition Version 1.2.54) on Joomla 1.5.22 and can't get this working either.

The latest JCK Editor build is 3.4.5 available here:

This is a plugin that does not has any specific DB tables.
So you can just define it.
It seems that the internal name is changed from kckeditor into jckeditor.
I will add this new name in the next patch definition.

So you can just "define" the extension with the JMS Tool and after go in the "global configuration" of the slave site to enable the editor.

Hello

There seems to be an issue when browsing folders with this extension. When you select the image button then browse server you are faced with "Resource Type" Not Set.

I have verified that this is only on the slave sites. I have the image folder set to unzip so that I get a fresh set of images for each site.

Has this functionality been tested?

Thanks
dave

Edwin - are you still waiting for a copy of this extension? I am attaching the latest version here.

Here's the current problem I am having with it - perhaps you can suggest how to fix this. I install the extension into the master site, then propagate it to the slave(s). When editing an article in the slave, I click the option in the JoomlaCK editor to insert an image. It opens a modal window, but references the images folder for the master site. Yes, my slave sites use COPY for the /images folder - so each slave has an actual /images folder and NOT a sym-link to the master's /images folder. In the extension there is a place to set your images folder. It defaults to simply "images" (no forward slashes or absolute paths). I have tried a few variances of /images, ../images - but nothing works.

Any idea how to get this to refer to the slave's images folder and not the master's?

Thanks,
--Kevin

Which version of JMS are you using ?
A patch were added in JMS 1.2.61 but we never received any feedback from customer to confirm that it fixes the issue.

Just updated to most recent version - still having same problem with images folder.

Any suggestions??

For now I am switching over to JCE editor - which appears to work perfectly. This is fine for me if a solution is never found for this issue.

Can you give me a clear procedure on how to reproduce the problem.
On my side, I don't have any problem. So if I can not reproduce it, I can not fix it.

Give me screenshot and step by step procedure.

I just installed the latest version of Multisites(1.2.93) and the JoomlaCK Editor V5.2. The css files built within JoomlaCK are not recognized and I cannot select any styles inside the editor. I have applied the latest multisites patch, but it does not seem to help. The site uses Joomla 1.5.26. Can you please investigate this when you have time? Thanks

The version V5.2 that we received is for joomla 1.7 or 2.5.
We tried to reproduce it on a master and a slave site in a subdirectory without success.

The "style" combo box as presented in the post provide a rendering that seems to be OK.

Perhaps you should check the parameters present in the plugin and that a parameter affect the rendering

Sorry to tell you that each time that I try to install the package on joomla 1.5.26, I receive an error but on joomla 2.5, I have success.

I will retry and try identifying what cause the error in the package for the installation on joomla 1.5

Hello,

I too have a problem with JoomlaCK editor 5.2 and uploading photos to images folder from slave sites.

Everytime an image is uploaded in a slave site from within JoomlaCK editor, the image ends up in the masters sites image directory.

I use the normal upload procedure, like this on slave site:

1. Click "Image icon" in toolbar.
2. Click "Browse server" button in the popup window.
3. Click "Browse" and choose any jpg, png or gif image from your computer, and press "Upload".
4. Image seems to be uploaded, but ends up in master image dir and can not be chosen from editor.

Using built-in "Media Manager" to upload images, works fine.
All my slave sites have been created with option "Copy" on imagefolder.

Using JMS ver. 1.2.93, Joomla 2.5.6 and JoomlaCK 5.2 released July 31, 2012.

Any help or suggestions will be very much appreciated!

Cheers,
Zorroson

PS. If you wish to receive the JoomlaCK editor on email, just let me know!
