As replied several time in the forum on such error and as explained in the User Manual trouble shooting, this error on "Unable to write entry" comes from a permission problem.

The possible reason are that you have installed Joomla with a user that have more priviledge than apache or IIS.
As JMS need to perform update of some existing files, if it has no permission to do it this is the kind of answer you receive.
Unfortunatelly, Joomla does not provide more information on the files or folders that have permission problem.

You have to check the owner and group of the files that must be patched, the permission of those files and folder.
Using the Joomla FTP layer may sometime solve the problem when you provide an FTP user and password with enough permission.
