sharing some tables between several sites

Posted by charly9721 - 2009/02/01 21:32

_____

Hi,
i'd like to create 3 sites on the same joomla core, so it seems JMS is the good tool for that.
More, i'd like some "functional" tables (tables created for specific needs) to be shared between the sites.
Is that posible ?
thanks for your answers

==========

Re:sharing some tables between several sites

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/02/02 09:11

_____

If you develop your own component that you design specially for JMS, it is possibly to use the same technology that we are using for the "Articles Sharing for JMS" that is able to connect on any website defined in JMS.
With our JMS database connection, it is possible to use the Site ID to get the connection to the database corresponding to the Site ID.
This give you the possibility to share the same component between websites.

==========