Flash intro in Master site display on slave site

Posted by supoeric - 2009/05/09 09:59

Hi Edwin2win

I have a Flash Intro embedded into the "index.html" in my master site.
I created 2 slave sites, but when I go to "site1.mydomani.com" and "site2.mydomain.com", both will display the Flash intro. Is it both slave sites are linked to Master site "index.html"?

I want the Flash intro only display in my master site.
How can I do this?

Best Regards
Eric Lin

==========

Re:Flash intro in Master site display on slave site

Posted by edwin2win - 2009/05/09 12:53

Dear Eric,
remember that JMS shares the files and folders on the disk.
Therefore this is normal that you execute the same index.html file.

The question is where is located your index.html file with the flash intro.
If it is located on the root of the master website, you can decide to deploy slave site into a specific directory. In this case, you will have the opportunity to create another index.html without the intro.

If the index.html is located into a themes (templates), you can also decide to have a specific themes directory for each slave site in aim to have a specific index.html file.

==========