Require paid support
Posted by sovereign6 - 2009/05/13 16:22

Hi Edwin

Sorry about the duplicate post not sure what happened there.

This is just a tad over the head for me here.

I am pressed for time and can't proceed with the completion of this project until I have this sorted.

Could we please set up a time for paid support .

Once everything is up and running and there is time over within the hour. Can I ask you some other Joomla related questions?

I am available at any time early morning or late nite. :)

Thanks

Ken

start to order the first hour on http://www.jms2win.com/download?page=shop.product_details&flypage=flypage.tpl&product_id=35&category_id=1

Send me also by email a full description of what you want to setup (domain name, sub-domain, ...)
I think we are moreless on the same time zone.
If you want we can proceed with support this evening (13 may) or tomorrow morning but not too early.
I will send you my MSN email exclusivelly used for the support.

Edwin

Thank you for your immediate help.

I think it is best that I finish off all sites first setting up correct mod placements in each site and then complete all slave sites.

I hope to have this done in 4 - 5 days - then I will require you to configure all the slaves.

I have installed the extensions to the master site.

Thanks

Ken

I don't understand your answer as you say that you will setup the correct mod placement in each site and complete all slave sites.

I don't understand why you will requie my support to configure the slave sites if you have already do that (the previous sentence). To have access the slave site, you will have to configure them in JMS and therefore you don't need my support.

Edwin

Not my intention to mess you around, sorry if I have.

I am in a learning process here and feeling my way through.

If I faulter I will call upon your support.

Thanks for understanding.

Cheers

Ken
